GETS A FOUNTAIN

MARYVILLE HAS ONLY TO COMPLY WITH REQUIREMENTS.

FROM HUMANE ALLIANCE

City Council Will Probably Build Cement Troughs for Those Already in Use.

Maryville will get one of those fine drinking fountains that the local humane society has been working so hard to get here, if the city will comply with the conditions. The conditions are that the city improve what water troughs they have and keep them in good shape.

When the matter was brought to the attention of Mayor Robey he said that the street committee of the council would get busy at once building cement troughs, one to be located at the East End store and the other at the corner of First and Main streets.

All of the conditions can easily be complied with, and it is reasonably certain that Maryville will get one of those fine drinking fountains from the National Humane alliance.

Lewis M. Seaver, the secretary of the national society, was in the city a few weeks ago investigating. On his return to New York he wrote the following letter to Mrs. E. G. Orear of this city, who is secretary of the Maryville Humane society, which was received Wednesday:

"I promised to write you when I reached here. Well, I got back Saturday last, and now I have to say to you that I think we will give Maryville one of our second size fountains out of the next lot, which probably would make it possible to have it shipped to you next September, but there is a proviso to this: I want to be sure that the watering troughs you have there are in condition before we ship your fountain. Hoping to hear from you from time to time, I remain, with best wishes to yourself, your husband, Mr. F. P. Robinson and the other good people I met there.

"LEWIS M. SEAVER."

A PIONEER'S STORY

A TALE OF THE COUNTY THAT GOES BACK HALF A CENTURY.

HISCOMING TO MARYVILLE

Part of the Journey Made on Railroad Where Passengers Helped Carry Wood for the Engine.

The Democrat-Forum will publish a history of Nodaway county from 1865 to the present time. It is written by one of the old settlers of Maryville, who came here in 1865.

The first installment of the article appears below. Other installments will be used from time to time.

I shall endeavor to the best of my ability to give a short history of the early settlement of Maryville and Nodaway county. My observation reaches back only to the 15th day of May, 1865. On arriving in St. Louis at an earlier date, I took a train on what was then called the Hannibal & St. Joseph railroad, that being the only railroad leading to St. Joseph at that time. It was what we now would call a mixed train, as near as I now remember. There were five freight cars and four passenger coaches, and a poor makeshift at that. There were but little accommodations on the road. The emigration had not yet started for the west, and the roadbed was in a horrible condition, as you are aware that it was just at the close of the contest which had waged for four long years. Each had contested for the supremacy of every foot of ground within the great state or commonwealth of Missouri. It seemed to me that the confederates had an especial grudge against the old Hannibal road. People living in that age will bear in mind that railroads ships and steamboats were propelled by steam made from burning wood instead of coal as now. The road ran almost exclusively through a wooded country. The wood was cut from the timber, hauled and corded along the right of way on both sides of the road, and when the engineer needed wood he would stop the train and fill the tender, and in order to make but little delay we would volunteer to carry wood to the tender. It seemed to me that many miles of cordwood had been burned, but had been hastily replaced. All of those long racks of wood were guarded by squads of men to keep the bushwhackers which infested that region from carrying on their nefarious work. Nearly every bridge and culvert on that road seemed to have been destroyed and hastily and only temporarily replaced. The cars ran so slow at times that I could walk behind on the ties and keep up with the train. I think it took us two days and one night to reach St. Joseph. On the morning of May 14 the conductor came through the car that I was in and called out St. Joseph. I acknowledge I was considerably worried, more from the loss of sleep than exertion, as you can readily perceive that an old hard bench, with the momentum of the car swaying from side to side of the track, would be a little monotonous. I got off at the old Patee depot, went from there to the old Patee hotel and got my breakfast. By that time I had begun to feel the pangs of hunger. I feel quite sure to this day that I gave that breakfast table justice that morning. I did not take in St. Joseph that morning, as I could see but little town there at that time. That evening I took the train for Savannah, in Andrew county, that being the terminus of the road at that time, also for several years afterward. I stayed all night that night at a hotel kept by a man by the name of Richards, on the south side of the public square.

George Davis then, and also now a resident of Maryville, was running a hack line from Maryville to Savannah. I found where he boarded, and called on him and secured a ride in his hack from Savannah to Maryville. A few miles out from Savannah we came to what they then called Bennett's lane. It was then about four miles long, fenced on each side with rails made from the nearby timber, which was quite numerous around Savannah in those early days. In all of my travels I could not recall another piece of road similar. Seemingly a short time before there had been no bottom to the road. It seemed to me that at every wagon's length a team had been mired in the mud, and had used the rails from each side of the road to pry their wagons out, and had not taken much pains in replacing after using them. Some were buried in the mud, which made it very undesirable and unsafe to drive over. All of the goods from Maryville, and even as far north as Clarinda, Ia. were hauled over that road, as it was the only highway by which Southern Iowa could reach Savannah and St. Joseph. I've often wondered was I sane in passing through the Bennett Lane. The old hack rocked from side to side like a ship upon the ocean tide.

The only houses that I can now recall was the Bennett house, after which the lane was named. John Riggins lived at the north end of the lane, on the east side of the road, and kept a road house or tavern. He was not very well prepared to keep many boarders, but he did the best he could. In those days people could put up with very little and no grumbling. We then came to the prairie. Many times as far as the eye could reach the wide prairies were without a house or cultivated field. Their wealth untouched by the farmer or husbandman, they seemed to be given over to wild grass and herds of cattle. Many deer were here at that time, and but a few years previous buffalo and elk had roamed over the prairie in this section of the country. I doubt if at this late day many of the traces of the buffalo could be found. They seemed to select the highest point on the prairie, so as to detect their enemies at a great distance. Nothing was ever known to grow on the ground where the wallows were.

At noon we reached the Sixteen Mile house, where we stopped for dinner, that being the first house since leaving John Riggins'. After eating dinner and changing horses we started again for Maryville. Just before we reached White Cloud we came to a house standing on the west side of the road and a barn on the east side. I learned that it belonged to a Mrs. Weaver, the mother of Clark Weaver, now a resident of Maryville. After crossing White Cloud creek we came to a little log cabin with two rooms. Caana Baker, formerly of this city, kept a store and the postoffice, if my memory serves me right. I forgot to state that the Sixteen Mile house was kept by a lady by the name of Mary Wood, an aunt of George Davis. She was a sister of George Davis' mother. She had one daughter named Tilly, whom many of the old settlers will remember. I forgot also to state that there was only an ill provided bridge where we crossed White Cloud creek. (To be continued.)

SUIT IN PARTITION OF LANDFATHER ESTATE

A partition suit was brought by Attorney Fred Harvey for Samuel K. Landfather against Thomas M. The plaintiff asks that commissioners be appointed by the court and that the interest of each to the land be set off.

Civilization Has Brought This.

Many of the inventions of civilization have their unhygienic side. The invention of houses has enabled mankind to dwell in all parts of the world, but it is responsible for tuberculosis, especially after glass was devised, which, while letting in the light, keeps out the air. The invention of the alphabet and printing has made possible the accumulation of knowledge, but it has produced system-strain with all its attendant evils. The invention of chairs had added to human convenience, but it has led to spinal curvature and abdominal congestion. The device of a division of labor has added to wealth, but has destroyed the normal balance of mental and physical work, recreation and rest. Similar fault may be found with clothing, especially corsets, shoes and hats, and with numerous other contrivances. Yet it would be foolish, even if it were possible, to attempt to "return to nature" in the sense of abolishing civilization. We must not go backward, but forward. The cure for eye-strain is not in disregarding the invention of glasses. The cure of tuberculosis is not in the destruction of houses, but in devices for ventilation—Dr. Irving Fisher in the New York Christian Advocate.

THE ROADS MEETING

HELD THURSDAY TO FORM TEMPORARY ORGANIZATION.

SELECTED FIVE TRUSTEES

Great Interest Being Taken and the Meeting Was Well Attended by Out-of-Town People.

At a meeting held in the Commercial club rooms this, Thursday, afternoon of some of the people interested in the good roads highway or the "Saints Highway" that is to pass through Nodaway county, a temporary organization was effected, Nick Sturm being elected president and G. B. Roseberry secretary.

Five trustees were also elected for this county, being only temporary. They were: E. C. Wolfers, Sr., Hopkins; J. P. Scowden, Orrsburg, representing the ridge road; Nick Sturm and G. B. Roseberry of Maryville, and Dr. J. A. Larrabee of Barnard.

The county association decided to join the St. Joseph and Des Moines Highway association, so as to have a uniform organization.

Merritt Campbell of Bedford, secretary of the Des Moines and St. Joseph association, was present at the meeting and discussed several phases of the organization. Mr. Campbell spoke of the general revenue and for what purpose it will be used. Sign boards, a map of the route and also the hiring of an engineer will be needed, and the general revenue fund will go for these things.

Mr. Campbell said further: "There is no question about the 'Saints Trail' passing through Maryville and Barnard, and as to the road from Bedford to Maryville, that will have to be decided later on."

Hopkins and Pickering are making strong efforts to land the road. So are the people on the east side of the county. It is thought that both roads can be used, but whether they can be officially selected will have to be taken up at the organization of the trail.

The next meeting will be held in Maryville on next Tuesday. Representatives from Andrew county will be present at that time. A permanent organization will be formed at that time.

Some of the out-of-town people that attended the meeting Thursday were: W. L. Morehead, E. C. Donlin, E. C. Wolfers, Sr., A. F. Beintart, all of Hopkins.

G. T. Logan, Elias Klass, Ross Kennedy, William Killion, Charles Evans, Otis Gray, J. S. Stewart, Charles Roof, J. P. Scowden, L. A. Nigh, Grant Munn, E. F. Addy, Madison Goodson and John Sparks, from the eastern part of the county.

Walter Campbell and Dr. J. A. Larrabee of Barnard.

Many more people were in attendance. The meeting was an enthusiastic one and great interest is being taken in the proposed trail.

TO SET ASIDE DEED

SUIT BROUGHT BY HEIRS OF JOHN D. VAUGHN.

WIDOWS' SUIT DISMISSED

The Other Heirs, However, Are Not Satisfied With the Settlement Effected.

A suit to partition some land and also to cancel a trust deed was filed in the circuit clerk's office Thursday by Shinabargar, Blagg & Ellison, attorneys for Catherine Vaughn, Sr., Catherine Vaughn, Jr., Mary Brennan, Maurice Brennan, Nellie Tobin, Thomas Tobin, Maggie McShane and Timothy McShane, against Jeremiah Vaughn and his wife, Ella Vaughn.

The petition states that on or about April 24, 1899, John D. Vaughn died in Jasper county, Mo., and left as heirs his wife, Tessie M. Vaughn; his mother, and four sisters and a brother; that he died intestate, and among other property left 120 acres located in Nodaway county, Tessie M. Vaughn and Jeremiah Vaughn were appointed administrators of the estate and that the widow's interest in the estate was one-half, and the other heirs one-twelfth.

When Jeremiah Vaughn went to Jasper county to take an inventory of the estate and go over the private papers of John D. Vaughn, the petition states, he found a trust deed with Maurice Brennan as trustee, dated October 6, 1895, to secure a promissory note of $3,000. The petition goes on to state that this was the first time that Jeremiah Vaughn knew of the trust deed, and that soon after discovering it he filed and recorded the trust deed in the recorder's office in Nodaway county, October 27, 1899, or four years after the deed was made, and six or seven months after John Vaughn had been dead. The petition further states that John Vaughn didn't owe Jeremiah Vaughn any amount of money or didn't borrow any money from him.

A suit was brought by the widow, Tessie M. Vaughn, against Jeremiah Vaughn, to have this deed of trust canceled and set aside. The suit was later dismissed, when Jeremiah Vaughn bought her interest in the farm. So now the suit is brought by the other heirs of the estate to have the land partitioned and the deed of trust canceled.

The suit will come up at the June term of court.

Many suits have been filed recently against Jeremiah Vaughn as an outgrowth of his administration of the estate of his brother, John D. Vaughn.

His many old friends over the county will be glad to know that he is recovering so nicely, and hope that he will soon be entirely well.

The Weather

Fair tonight and Friday.

The beginning of eye troubles

Usually come very gradually. Often for years there are indications that the sight is failing. It's a great mistake not to heed these first signs. Those who get glasses at the first indication of something wrong miss a lot of suffering. But no matter in what shape your eyes are in, there is always relief at our optical department.

RECIPROCITY BILL UNDER HOT FIRE

Farmers, Fishermen and Paper Makers Have Inning.

EX-GOVERNOR MAKES A TALK.

John Strange of Wisconsin Calls It Cowardly Measure—Vicious Assault Made on Bill at Hearing of Senate Finance Committee.

Washington, May 11.—Vicious assaults on the Canadian reciprocity bill marked the hearing by the senate finance committee. Farmers from border states, fishermen from Gloucester, Mass., manufacturers of book, wrapping and news print paper poured forth their protests.

Probably the greatest outburst occurred when former Governor John Strange of Wisconsin, introduced as representing the wrapping paper manufacturers of Neenah and Menasha, Wis., addressed the committee. He swerved from criticism of the bill to attack "the American Publishers' association and its related organ, the Associated Press." Mr. Strange characterized the bill as a "cowardly measure and lacking love of country and brought forth at the demand of "the greatest trust in the world."

He said that congress would not be in session today considering the bill if it had not been for "this combination in restraint of trade."

The witness contended that the purpose of the "alleged newspaper trust" was to monopolize news through the incorporated Associated Press.

Judge Charles F. Moore of New York, for the book paper manufacturers, characterized the measure as a "sterilized variety of reciprocity that really does not reciprocate."

Farmers' National Opposes.

Chicago, May 11.—John M. Stahl, legislative agent of the Farmers' National congress, announced that the alliance, which is represented in its membership in nearly all the important farming states, would oppose reciprocity with Canada. This decision, he said, had been reached after a thorough investigation of all the economic and industrial conditions involved.

"There can be no doubt," said Mr. Stahl, "that the Canadian trade agreement would very seriously injure millions of our farmers. The prices of grains and farm animals are much less than a year ago."

"The price of hogs on the Illinois or Iowa farm in the last thirty days has been only 60 per cent of the price in the same period of 1910, but the prices of meats to the city consumer are nearly as high now as then. The farmer is not the one to strike at because of the high price of foodstuffs to the city consumer. The proposed agreement with Canada is unfair and inequitable. It will hurt our farmers seriously, and what injures the farmers will lead to injury to others."

Hayne, the bull leader, to take the entire supply of spot cotton in New Orleans at 15.48 cents, the bulls were aggressive and forced July cotton to 15.71 cents, a new high record for the season.

JUAREZ MADERO CAPITAL

Navarro Surrenders to Rebel Troops.

FIFTY FEDERALS KILLED

Insurrecto Loss is Placed at About Fifteen.

250 WOUNDED ON BOTH SIDES

Federal Commander and His Officers Paroled by Madero.

Juarez, Mex., May 11.—This little bullet riddled city today is the provisional capital of Mexico and Francisco I. Madero, Jr., provisional president, and his staff have taken complete possession after winning the bloodiest battle of the Mexican revolution.

In a corner room of the barracks, which for two days he held out against the terrific fire of the rebels, sits General Juan J. Navarro, the federal commander, a captive, having surrendered with almost his entire garrison of several hundred men. His surrendered to the rebels.

GENERAL NAVARRO,

fallen face is sunken, his head is bowed, and he does not talk, for the bitter sting of defeat has disheartened him.

In contrast, in another part of the little town is Francisco I. Madero, Jr., the conqueror, surrounded by members of his family and his staff, joyous, exultant and flushed with victory; yet ready, he says, to make peace with the Mexican government if it is disposed to deal frankly and sincerely with the revolutionists, and without such vague promises as "President Diaz manifesto contains."

In hotel lobbies, store fronts and hallways the improvised hospitals of the battlefield, are scores of wounded, attended by a host of physicians and nurses of El Paso, who have volunteered medical relief. The floors of the Porfirio Diaz hotel, where thirty wounded lay, are covered with blood and gore soaked clothing.

"The fortunes of war," mumbled an insurrecto soldier in Spanish, as he stood with tears in his eyes over the dead body of a federal soldier whom he had known for years.

Fifty Federals Killed.

The dead are being buried. A conservative estimate of physicians, as well as the insurrecto leaders who surveyed the fighting, puts the federal dead at nearly fifty and the rebel loss at about fifteen, with a total of nearly 250 wounded on both sides. The actual number lost probably never will be known, as deserters were many and the dead have been buried quickly.

A press correspondent counted seven dead rebels in the barracks. Among the dead were Colonel Tambores and Captain Sachado, the former the man who a few days ago taunted the rebels as cowards.

On the American side of the line five have been killed and about seventeen wounded, many of them being innocently engaged at a distance from the river front.

Treat Prisoners Well.

The actual surrender of the town by General Navarro took place at about 1 o'clock, General Navarro giving his sword to Colonel Garibaldi of the insurrecto army, after the rebels had completely surrounded the barracks and threatened to annihilate the garrison within.

His eyes dimmed as he surrendered, but Colonel Garibaldi, with a handshake that bespoke his sincere admiration for the brave fight the federal leader had made, assured him of the desire of the rebels to afford him every courtesy. A score of rebel officers rode up and extended to the federal commander their sympathy as Mexicans for him and his men.

There is the same fraternal sentiment in the hearts of the entire insurrecto army for their countrymen who have been defeated, but everywhere are heard words of opprobrium for President Diaz, who they hold responsible for the loss of life and the suffering of the wounded.

General Madero, himself, when he arrived at the corral, where the federal prisoners are now quartered, made an address full of sympathy and encouragement.

Cheers for Madero.

"You fought for General Diaz," he declared, at the conclusion of his speech, "because you had to, because you were a part of that system which we are trying to dissolve. In a few days, perhaps, peace will be restored. You soon will be free. If the war is to be continued you can have your choice of being paroled or joining the army of liberation. In the meantime we shall treat you as brothers, not as foes."

With shouts of "Viva Madero," the vast throng of prisoners and insurrectos who gathered to hear him threw their hats skyward and shouted in most deafening applause.

General Navarro and his twenty-seven officers were paroled by Madero.

The town the federals thought impregnable to attack fell after a comparatively easy effort. The house to house advance of the insurrectos, the same deadly fire which had driven the federals from their trenches and outposts Monday, when the skirmishing began, gave them an entrance to the town hardly molested by the artillery of the federals.

Capture Machine Guns.

The insurrectos began to collect thousands of rounds of ammunition from the federal barracks and they easily have made the most valuable capture of the revolution.

The rebels now have two mortars, three machine guns and two field pieces. Their ammunition belts, somewhat depleted during the attack, are filled again.

The town of Juarez has been mauled beyond recognition by bullets and shells. Several houses have been burned to the ground.

LIEUTENANT KELLY KILLED BY A FALL

Army Officer, Riding Aeroplane,
Drops Fifty Feet to Earth.

San Antonio, Tex., May 11.—Lieutenant George E. Kelly of the Thirtieth infantry, United States army, was killed in a fall from a Curtiss aeroplane at Fort San Houston. He was making a flight and when about fifty feet from the ground shot forward from his seat, landing on his head. His skull was fractured and he died in a few moments without regaining consciousness.

Kelly was a pupil of Glenn Curtiss in aviation and came here about three weeks ago from San Diego, Cal., where he received his first lessons. It is believed the accident was caused by the unexpected starting of the engine while Kelly was making a landing.

PROFIT BY OTHERS' EXPERIENCE

Gray Hair Restored

My hair was getting quite gray and falling out rapidly and I was troubled with a terrible itching of the scalp. My head was full of dandruff, which fell upon my clothes and kept me continually brushing it off. While on a visit to Rochester I heard of your Sage and Sulphur for the hair. I got a bottle and used it. A few applications relieved the itching, my hair stopped falling out and gradually came back to its natural color. It is now a nice dark brown color, soft, glossy and pliable. Several of my friends want to use it, and I want to know what you will charge me for six bottles of it.

Grew Hair on a Bald Head

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is fairly covered and keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.
